BAROSSA™

FINE FOODS

Barossa Fine Foods is proudly owned and run by the Knoll family.

Since 1924, four generations of Knolls have drawn on their German heritage to handcraft the finest smallgoods and charcuterie, using traditional methods and recipes. Barossa Fine Foods sources some of the best free-range and sustainably-farmed fresh meats from farmers in the Barossa Valley and regional South Australia.

Barossa Fine Foods is the proud manufacturer of Schulz Butchers, Angelakis Brothers Seafood products and Standom Smallgoods - all produced to original recipes and cooking methods, ensuring the authenticity and tradition isn't lost.

The Boks family originated in Holland where they were butchers and smallgoods makers. In 1951 Johannes Franciscus Andreas Boks emigrated from Holland to Australia with his son Johannes Franciscus Maria Boks. They found their way to Tasmania and settled in Cygnet in the Huon Valley in the far south. They opened a butchery and there started the legacy of Boks Bacon. The traditional Dutch recipes handed down from generation to generation and brought to Tasmania quickly developed a cult following for their wonderful smoky flavours.

The story of Eve Smallgoods is one of tradition, excellence, and true craftsmanship. It begins in Vienna with Karl Götzinger's passion for sausage-making, a legacy carried forward by generations of his family.

When Stephan Götzinger brought this tradition to Australia, he founded Götzinger Smallgoods in 1988, setting a new standard for premium smallgoods in the local market.

After selling the Götzinger business, Stephan and his wife Alanna established Eve Smallgoods – continuing the family's proud heritage. Today, Eve Smallgoods remains dedicated to using superior ingredients and time-honoured methods to produce exceptional products. Their range is trusted by delicatessens, caterers, airlines, and hospitality partners across Australia.

Speak to your Territory Manager to discover the extensive range of Eve Smallgoods products available through PE Foods.

From milk that tastes “just like it used to,” to a wholesome range of yoghurts, custards, and cream, Maleny Dairies is proudly rooted in the Sunshine Coast. Every product is sourced from local dairy farmers, processed at the family-run dairy, and delivered fresh to customers.

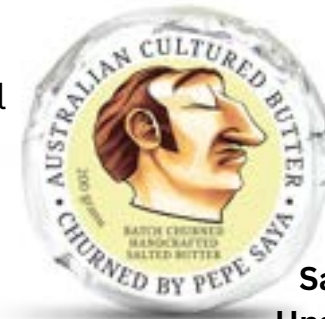

Naturally produced and bottled cold, Maleny Dairies’ products reflect a deep respect for the land, the cows, and the farmers. By purchasing and processing milk from other local producers as well as their own, they ensure the future of Queensland dairy farming while delivering the highest quality products to the community.

PEPE SAYA BUTTERY

Pepe Saya Buttery was started in 2010, with the dream of making a beautiful tasting Australian cultured butter and creating a shift towards using local butter. The difference in Pepe Saya butter in the process it goes through to make it. The butter is beurre de baratte (butter of the churn) - it is batch churned from single origin cream, creating a natural and less processed product. When the cream arrives from the farms to the creamery in Caringbah the cream is heated up and inoculated with a lactobacillus culture. The cream is then left to culture, allowing for a full buttery taste and slight tang to develop, creating the unique flavour of the cultured butter- this is the crème fraiche. The crème fraiche is then churned, which produces buttermilk and of course then the butter. Finally, the butter is kneaded and placed into hand pressed moulds, wrapped and labelled.

It’s hard to beat the flavour and rich, creamy texture of genuine cultured butter, gently churned the old-fashioned way in a baratte. Le Conquérant French Butter carries the AOP symbol and is guaranteed to be made only from fresh local cream cultured using a time-honoured, natural maturation process lasting up to 24 hours. Quality varies according to the seasons and the softest richest butter is made during the early summer flush, when the green seaside meadows are covered in a riot of buttercups, daisies and dandelions. This is the butter the Normans traditionally keep for themselves and has been specially selected by Will so you can share in their secret!

The Olsson Family have been making solar sea salt since 1948 and is the oldest family owned and operated sea salt maker in Australia.

To make it's sea salt, Olsson's use the method called "solar evaporation". Solar salt is produced by the action of sun and wind on seawater in large ponds. The seawater evaporates in successive ponds until the seawater is fully concentrated and the salt then crystallizes on the floor of the pond. It is then scooped up, washed in seawater, dried and packaged. That's it. There are no chemical processes involved in the manufacture of Olssons salts.

Chunky Dave's Peanut Butter is handmade in Sydney Australia.

He only uses peanuts grown, processed and roasted in Kingaroy, Queensland and makes each batch one jar at a time.

The peanuts are roasted, salted, and ground to perfection.

Then he bottles and labels each jar.

Dave makes 3 types of Peanut Butter - Chunky, Smooth + Chilli.

He doesn't use any preservatives or other mysterious ingredients, so it's a good idea to store the jar in the fridge once it's been opened.

It will keep for a few months.... if it lasts that long.

100% gluten free, no animal products, preservatives, colours, emulsifiers, stabilisers, or sugar.

Chunky Dave's is 100% awesome - no added rubbish.

MOUNT WARNING

MINERAL WATER

Filtered by nature in the mountains beyond the beach is where you'll find the pristine source. Bundjalung country is renowned for the imposing silhouette of Mount Warning; an ancient volcano overlooking the stunning coastline and beaches of Byron Bay, and the first place to see the sunrise on mainland Australia. In this setting, hundreds of feet below the rainforest, lies the Mount Warning Mineral Water source – a vast confined aquifer that has remained to this day, pure and protected. The sparkling water is gently effervescent, whilst our perfectly still water is naturally alkaline.
